

Guidelines for the manuscript of DAGENE Journal 2019

Members are kindly requested to submit their manuscript in appropriate form. So we can reduce the editorial burden.

Our Journal is currently in black and white, so do not prepare manuscript for colour printing. We draw the attention of the authors to the opportunity to refer their articles either in the DAGR Journal or in other ones for more reputation.

The whole length of the manuscript should not exceed 6 pages. Formal requirements: A4, Times New Roman, 12, single space, justified right and left margins (margins are generally of 2.5 cm with except of lower margin which is 2.0 cm only), and paragraphs are separated without use of tabs, approximately 2500 words or 15000 characters. Cited authors' names are written with capital letters together with the year in the text. In case of two authors both of the names should be referred in the text. In case of more than 2 authors "first author et al." should be written.

Colleagues, who will present posters in 2019, can select between two solutions: they either prepare a 6 pages long manuscript (see above) or compress their work into a 1 page long summary, edited as the abstract (see below), but containing 400 words or 2500 characters.

Results and discussion Times New Roman, bold, 12

(1 empty line)

It is to report the main findings. Tables should be comprehensive and simple, and arranged without frames and vertical lines; horizontal lines are advised. Tables should be centred. Before and after the tables leave one and two empty line/s, respectively. The same result must not be presented in tables and graphs. Tables should be numbered consecutively with Arabic numerals in order of appearance in the text. Table titles should be clear, and set above the table with an empty line gap. References to tables in the text should be given as „Table 1”, and so on. Legends can be added if it contributes to a better understanding.

Figures should be numbered consecutively with Arabic numerals in order of appearance in the text. Lettering should be large enough to be legible after reduction of the illustration. Heads of the figures should also be clear, and put below the figure. Figures are referred to within the text as „Figure 1”, and so on. Please, try to avoid colour Figures (images; the Journal is printed in black and white).

The discussion should interpret the results step by step, and compare own ones with previous literature data.
